

BIG WAR BURDEN TO FALL ON LABOR
SAYS CHARLES EDWARD RUSSELL IN STORY
LATHERS JOLT SIMON O'DONNELL AGREEMENT

THE DAY BOOK

An Adless Newspaper, Daily Except Sunday

VOL. 4, NO. 248

Chicago, Monday, July 19, 1915

398

JUDGE CALLS WOMEN DISCIPLES OF FAGIN

Scores Shoplifters for Using Young Boy as a Tool—Cites the Repetto Case—Women Must Serve Time—Boy To Be Cared For.

Two women caught shoplifting in the Boston Store were bitterly arraigned by Judge Mahoney when they were brought into his court today. They used the 10-year-old son of one in their shoplifting raids.

Rose Marchese and Marie Rele of 557 Porquer st. were the women, and little Tony Marchese was the innocent member of the trio. The women will spend the next two months in jail. Tony will be cared for from outside sources.

"You are disciples of Fagin," began

Judge Mahoney when he sentenced the women.

"Just last week they hanged a young fellow in Joliet prison for murder. Murder was the last of a series of crimes which had dotted his short life.

"Before he climbed the scaffold, Frank Repetto, in his broken way, told his jailers a story which runs parallel with that which little Tony Marchese may tell later, unless we take a hand.

"He was picked up when young and taught to steal in Chicago depart-